MORE DETAILS ABOUT PARADE MONDAY NIGHT

After Game Smoker Should Prove Attraction.

PARODIES TRIED OUT.

Students Put on Their Honour to Avoid Disturbances En Route.

The new Rooters' Club parodies were given their first try-out at the practice held in the Union yesterday afternoon, under the leadership of "Bill" Hughes, and with the co-operation of over 250 enthusiastic rooters, who are out to make the biggest noise of their career at the game on Monday night. There was no question about the enthusiasm of the men who gathered at the Union yesterday, and spent an hour getting in form for the parade and the game on Monday. Heart and soul they entered into the spirit of the practice, and made the rafters ring with their cheers and songs. One or two of the parodies fell flat, and will be rejected, but the majority made a great hit with the men.

The organization of the parade is as follows—

On the march out and back from the Arena, the parade will be in charge of W. H. Gerrie. He will have to assist him, the other members of the Council, who will all be chief marshals. The various class presidents will be sub-marshals under their respective faculty representative, and will have charge of their class. Posted at different points along the line there will be marshals who will report to their class presidents, who in turn report to the faculty representative. The distinguishing mark of the chief marshals will be a red and white band on the left arm, while the other marshals will wear a red band on the left arm.

The parade will fall in at 7.30 sharp in front of the Union. A man carrying a torch will act as a marker for each class. The order of forming up will be as follows: Medicine, Science, Arts and Law. The head marker for Medicine will take his position directly in front of the Union, while the other markers will take up their respective places between the Union and Strathcona Hall, in the above mentioned order.

The route, unless word is received from the police department to the contrary, will be along Sherbrooke to Union Avenue, down Union to St. Catherine St., and along St. Catherine to the Arena rink.

The parade will leave the McGill Union at 7.45 sharp, and will reach the rink at the half time period of the first game. At the rink, the rooters will take all instructions from cheer leader Bill Hughes, while the marshals will see that the men get into their proper places. After the same order in front of the Arena, and march back along St. Catherine to University St., and thence to the Union, where eats, smokes and an entertainment will be supplied.

The Council have given a grant towards this smoker, and everyone should make it a point to come back with the parade. The men will march into the Union in the same order as on the parade, and will take their places at the tables already arranged for them. In addition a short programme is being arranged, and there will also be speeches by President Rooney, Coach Poulin, and other members of the hockey team. Everything promises towards one of the most enjoyable evenings at McGill for the year.

The men are asked to bear in mind the following instructions, as only strict adherence to these will make the parade a success.

(1)—All students will look to their marshals for instructions on parade, who in turn will look to their class presidents and faculty members.

(2)—There must be no sign-board destroying, pulling off trolleys or any other disturbance on the march out and back from the Arena, which would lead to trouble.

(3)—The students are put on their honour. This should not be forgotten in view of the times. People will judge us by our actions, and if they are of such a character as to cast any reflections on the Student body, you may depend the city papers will spare no pains in bringing it before the public in a very much exaggerated manner.

It is the intention to form an M out at the rink, so as many men that have red sweaters are asked to wear them. It will require from seventy-five to one hundred to do this properly, and in order to give cheer leader Bill Hughes assistance in this matter a list has been opened at the Union of those men willing to take part in the M, and who have red sweaters. Everybody who has a red sweater is asked to sign this list some time before Monday night.

Up to date very few men have secured tickets for the game. Those who attended the rooters' club practice last night will remember how emphatic the cheer leader was that every man have his ticket before the parade starts out. If any man has not got his ticket he will not be allowed to take part in the parade, because it would only cause confusion when they arrived at the rink.

MAJOR JOHN J. MOYSE DIES OF HIS WOUNDS

Son of Dean of Faculty of Arts Passes Away in France.

Private advices received yesterday by Dr. Charles E. Moyse, Dean of the Faculty of Arts, told of the death from wounds at a clearing station near the firing line in France of his second son, Major J. J. Moyse, of the 1st Battalion, Bedfordshire Regiment, B.E.F., who was reported dangerously wounded the previous day. Major Moyse's death occurred on Thursday.

Major Moyse was 32 years of age, and one of three sons of Dr. and Mrs. Moyse in khaki. Born in Montreal, he was educated at Bath, England, and later at McGill University, where he was a student in the Faculty of Applied Science for several years. He did not, however, complete his course in the Faculty of Applied Science, but instead went to England, and there took training at a military college with a view to entering the army. At the time of the outbreak of the war, he was a captain in the 2nd Battalion of the Bedfordshire Regiment, being stationed in South Africa. He was wounded not long after he was transferred to France, and upon convalescence was appointed to a British regiment in Egypt. Recalled to join his battalion in France, Capt. Moyse was again wounded last April. When he returned to the French front he was raised to the rank of major and attached to the 1st Battalion of the Bedfordshire Regiment. It was with this unit that he was serving when he was mortally wounded a few days ago.

The eldest son of Dean Moyse, Pte. Stirling Moyse, is with the 34th Canadian Reserve Battalion, in England, and the youngest son, Lieut. R. E. Moyse, Law '14, has just returned to England after having recovered from wounds received in the fighting of the Somme.

C. O. T. C. HOCKEY GAME.

This morning will see the famous teams representing Platoons No. 11 and 12 of the McGill C. O. T. C. clash in a game of hockey. The contest, as is natural in the case of a meeting between experts, is exciting great interest, and without doubt will be productive of some fine hockey, although No. 12 would seem to be at a slight disadvantage, owing to the presence on the opposing line-up of at least three individual stars. At a work-out held on Wednesday nine men of 12 turned out, however, this giving them the edge as regards substitutes.

UNION IS POPULAR.

With the increased patronage due to the Rooters' Club practices the Union is enjoying some of its old-time popularity with the student body. "It looks just like old times," said an undergraduate of several years' standing yesterday as he watched the students gathering for the Rooters' practice. There are no fewer than three smokers on the Union card in the near future.

Campus Rink Party Given up --- Snow!

Owing to the heavy fall of snow yesterday, it was impossible to hold the skating party which had been arranged to take place last evening on the Campus Rink, under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A. and the Y. W. C. A. With several inches of snow on the rink yesterday morning, and with a high wind which blocked the Campus sidewalks with drifts, the prospect of holding the party seemed remote, and when the snowfall continued throughout the day, and into the evening, it was realized that to hold the party would be an impossibility. The groundskeeper, Tom Graydon, is short-handed in regard to snow-shovellers, and he had his hands full yesterday in keeping the sidewalks open for traffic.

MCGILL PLAYS IN BOSTON FOR THE RED CROSS

Team Leaves to Meet Harvard To-night

"CANADIAN NIGHT."

Governor McCall and Other Leading Americans Will Attend Game.

Filled with confidence that they will be able to defeat Harvard in Boston to-night for the first time in three years, the McGill team left last night to fill their annual engagement with the Cambridge team in the Boston Arena to-night. Canadian Night in Boston always prove a great attraction with former Canadians in Beantown, and indications are that to-night will prove no exception to the rule. The McGill graduates will be present in force, and a special section has been reserved in the rink for their accommodation.

Reports from Boston are to the effect that McGill should at least have an even break in their game with Harvard. The match has always been a close one, but the Harvard supporters are a little dubious of their ability to turn the trick on the faster and more successful McGill team of this season. A Boston report speaks as follows of the line-up of the two teams:

"McGill has always brought at least one star with its team on these annual jaunts. The line-up this year eludes three men who performed with rare brilliancy against Harvard last year. Pat Rooney, at rover, needs no introduction to local fans. He was the whole attack at times for McGill in the match a year ago, and it is expected that he will be even better to-morrow night.

"McCulloch at left wing, is a man the Canadians are said to be depending on for effective work. He will be opposed by Greenough Townsend, the wing man developed by Coach Winsor. The battle between these two ought to be worth following. Behan, another veteran of McGill, faces a seasoned player of the other wing in Ted Rice. This tall player is one of the craftiest forwards in the college game, and his work this year has been most effective, although not of the flashy variety."

The game with Harvard was only approved by the Athletic Committee of Corporation after assurance had been given that the trip would be conducted as economically as possible, and that the proceeds for the McGill team, after the deduction of expenses from the Boston Arena guarantee would be devoted to patriotic purposes. This was the ruling of the committee in the case of the recent trip to Pittsburgh, and will doubtless be followed in all future international athletic contests in war time.

In addition at the Boston Arena to-night, a collection will be made in behalf of the Red Cross. Hockey players and prominent New England McGill graduates, wearing neat Red and White armlets, with the word "McGill Hospital" printed on them, will make their way through the crowd and collect for the benefit of the Red Cross work overseas. In this the players and graduates will be assisted by sympathizers from Harvard, who have volunteered their services to the team. President Rooney, of the Hockey Club, stated yesterday that he expected a large contribution to bring back to Montreal, and to be handed over to the Red Cross authorities. Boston advices state that Dr. E. F. Murphy, president of the Boston Arena Club, and an enthusiastic Canadian and McGill graduate, is arranging a "Canadian Night" such as has never been held before. He is also out to give the visiting students one of the best times of their lives. Dr. Murphy has extended invitations to State and city officials, and the officers of the Boston Chamber of Commerce. Boxes will be decorated for Governor McCall, of Massachusetts, and Mayor Curley of Boston. It is expected that Governor McCall will face the puck.

While Harvard was successful in defeating Queen's in Boston some days ago by a score of 5-1, the fact that Queen's has a weaker team than that which represented the Tricolour in years past must be taken into consideration. The Boston critics do not anticipate so easy a victory for Harvard in the case of to-night's game. Where Harvard has the advantage is in the number of substitutes which she possesses, and which are used to full advantage during the game. Where Harvard has the advantage forwards repeatedly came down the ice fore and aft, using the finest of combination, would slip through the Queen's defence, and bat the puck in for a count. McGill will be represented by the following players: Scott, Fraser, Cully, Behan, McCulloch, Kelly, Poe, Anderson, Whitcomb and Robillard. Coach Poulin, Manager Moore and a McGill Daily representative also accompanied the team.

Previous to leaving for Boston last night, the senior McGill squad held a final workout at the Arena to put the finishing touches on their preparation for the game, which they expect to be one of the hardest they have played this season.

PROFANITY.

It is an unpleasant but none the less undeniable fact that a goodly proportion of college men still consider profanity quite the thing. There was a time when an assortment of strange and fearful oaths was regarded as a necessary part of the mental equipment of the student. Since then matters have fortunately improved somewhat, and it is no longer customary for collegians to be picked out from among their less cultured brethren by their swearing. Yet, as has been said, there are some who cling to the old habit.

It is plain that in order that the custom may survive it must be either pleasant or useful, or both. As to its being pleasant to the hearers, we think anyone will admit that it is not the most delightful experience in the world to see and hear a fellow-student making a display of his want of control. Is it pleasant for the user of profanity? In answering this question we must bear in mind that the language we refer to can certainly not be employed in every kind of company. Well, is it not a considerable strain upon a man's mind, when speaking to a young lady, let us say, to have constantly to remember that he must tone down his epithets? Is not the thought of the hideous consequence of a slip enough to poison all his enjoyment? Further, it is never pleasant to look back upon the moments when we have "cut loose," and reflect on the spectacle we must have provided to all and sundry. The quiet man who keeps his temper and his tongue always has the advantage over the man who lacks control over either of these.

If then, the use of violent, even if picturesque, language, habitually is not a pleasure, is it useful in any way? "Ha," we hear someone remark, "it lends emphasis to the spoken word." But does it? Suppose, for example, that some prominent student is in the habit of using highly-decorated phraseology when matches are missing from his pocket, or he has forgotten his locker key, or he sits down on his hard felt hat, or any of those nasty little incidents with which we are all familiar occurs; will he, when some real disaster comes along, be able to rise to the occasion? Not a bit of it. He cannot fall back upon his worn-out and jaded vocabulary, and doubtless he will be reduced to muttering, "Dear me," or "My goodness."

Consider, on the other hand, him who is not in the habit of using profanity. He contents himself with the economical use of the English tongue in expressing his thoughts. A slight mishap is accepted with philosophic calm and fails to ruffle the surface of his crystal rhetoric. But conceive of some mighty catastrophe befalling the man, suppose his lady-love to have turned him down in favour of a wealthy bank-manager, or conceive that he has been plucked in every one of his exams. What a pleasure, what a luxury for some one to indulge in a single stupendous, soul-stirring epithet, worthy of the occurrence in every way! Then you may observe his fellow-students remark in hushed tones, "Say, something awful must have happened to Jones to-day! I heard him swear!"

THE SPIRIT OF CANADA.

Out of darkness into light, is the trend of thought in Canada. Of all the changes wrought in that country during the last two and a half years, none is more remarkable, or more encouraging to its thinking people and its friends, than the change in the national outlook. Canadians themselves find it no easy matter to analyze and explain the metamorphosis. Some of their newspapers describe and explain it as the dawn and growth of national, as distinct from a colonial, relationship to the Empire. In raising an army, in raising war loans, in financing undertakings beyond anything that was thought possible in the Dominion, before August, 1914, the country has taken on responsibilities which, in the consciousness of its people, secure to a dignity that it has neither possessed nor claimed in the past.

The growth of this larger consciousness of nationhood is noted in a recent editorial in the Victoria (B. C.) Colonist, which, after declaring that the new comprehension of Canada's resources and possibilities is manifest and unmistakable, says that the war has had a clarifying effect upon those Canadians who, before its coming, were unable to see things in the correct perspective.

This is true equally of those who have gone to the front and of those who have, sometimes at great personal sacrifice, enabled them to go. The perspective of every man, woman, and child who shall make up the population of Canada after the war, will be very different from that which obtained before the war. The outlook will be broader. There will be, throughout the world, a more intelligent comprehension of what Canada is and of what are its possibilities. The Colonist is not dreaming empty dreams when it hears the tramp of coming legions of desirable immigrants as a consequence of the further awakening of the national conscience "when the boys come marching home." These boys will understand better, and appreciate better than ever before, for having been away, the resources of their own country, and their enthusiasm for development will be like that which inspired the disbanded troops of Grant and Lee on the southern side of the line in '64. The great West of the United States sprang into life, and a new empire was born, in the days when "the boys were marching home" from Appomattox.

The resources of Canada in soil, in mine, and in forest, have scarcely been scratched. The grasp of Canada upon their possibilities has hardly been felt. The time is coming, and is near at hand, when the Dominion will experience the onrush of new and powerful energies that only a mighty struggle with self, and a victory over self, could have awakened.—The Christian Science Monitor.

SECOND OF ALLIANCE FRANCAISE LECTURES

"French Culture" Was the Subject of an Interesting Address.

The second of M. Bois' delightful series of lectures was held in the R. R. V. C. last night, and enjoyed by a fair-sized audience, in spite of the very disagreeable weather. The lecturer opened the address with great praise for Canada, a nation far from the war zone, who has yet contributed generously both men and money to help Great Britain and France. These countries, who are fighting for the Anglo-Saxon, and the Latin cultures, have deeply appreciated the aid supplied to them by Canadians.

The subject of French Culture was introduced and dwelt upon at great length, various points being shown in which it forms a contrast to that of Germany. Bismarck declared that France was a worn-out country—the Kaiser has added that he's a degenerate people. But at this very time, Wilhelm II. was entertaining and lauding the French musicians, artists, and sculptors. And already at this very time France had created the greatest colonial empire outside that of Great Britain.

M. Bois told of the energy and patriotic work of Gambetta, who had raised France from where she lay bleeding, and created of her a republic. And many heroic French figures, both of the present and of the past, were honored, and their great deeds described.

The next of these lectures will take place next Monday evening, at 8.15.

THE IMPERIAL THEATRE.

The roles which are the more suitable for the acting of Clara Kimball Young are those where she has to display sympathy, and it is those interpretations that have endeared her to the hearts of the film world. It is with enthusiasm therefore that her new picture, "The Dark Silence," to be the feature attraction to-morrow, Monday and Tuesday, will be greeted. Miss Young plays two roles, or rather two different stages of the same girl's life. In the first she is an art student in Paris, whose affections for a sculptor student are returned by him. There is a snake in the grass, however, and the friendship is broken, each thinking the other's actions sincere, yet they are misled by the third party. The man is an Englishman and goes to war—the girl to forget her remorse, joins the Red Cross. Their next meeting is in a hospital at the front, with her hero blinded. Another romance then occupies the screen as heart appealing, and as unusual as the most successful romance staged. It is a story the like of which will be reproduced in many lives after the war, and as such, is a play worth while. Albert Capellani, who directed Miss Young's other big photoplays, "The Foolish Virgin," and "The Common Law," is responsible for this fine work, and his exactitude for realism and naturalness will be appreciated in this as in all others.

This three day bill is another of the double feature programmes to be presented at the Imperial. The second chapter of "The Secret Kingdom," Louis Joseph Vance's super-series, which commenced last week, is "Royalty at Red Wing." Red Wing being an American ranch on which the heir to the throne grows up as a cowboy. Each episode of this series is individually an interesting two-act drama, and will be enjoyed by itself, yet the following of the whole series is the more interesting. Another prominent screen star, Dorothy Kelly, will be introduced this week, and she will continue in each act until the end. Charles Richman takes the part of the boy grown up in this chapter.

Read by millions, published in America's greatest monthly, "The Cosmopolitan," and accorded the praise of the greatest story of its author, Robert W. Chambers, "The Girl Philippa," now comes into being as a super-photoplay in eight reels. Its first showing in Canada will be made here for four days, Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday next, and being the dramatization of so successful a book will become one of the year's great pictures. The story's value as a photoplay becomes wonderfully enhanced when Anita Stewart plays "Philippa," a mere slip of a lass, a wholesome sprightly-charming natural girl, radiating the spirit of joy and naturalness, imbuing all her portrayals with that subtle quality of "soul." Anita Stewart's characterization of "The Girl Philippa" offers her opportunity to reach the highest point of her dramatic achievements. The author, Robert W. Chambers, needs no introduction, the novel having the largest demand of any in America. It was he who wrote last year's great success, "The Common Law." In "The Girl Philippa" he has taken an atmosphere charged with secret agents, society intrigue and oppressive blood lust and woven into it, by the magic spell of his genius, a delightful love theme that charms and pleases. The erection of a quaint and picturesque French village, with its cobbled stone pavement and its gabled-roofed houses and then its destruction, the wrecking of rows of buildings by aeroplanes, are among the realistic incidents of this eight act super-play. The play had the most successful run of any film in New York City, when shown at the Rialto. All records were broken and the press hailed it as an outstanding picture. The hours of presentation during the four days of its showing are at 1, 3, 5, 7 and 9 p.m., and in spite of the increased cost of this attraction, the prices will remain as usual.

LECTURE AT SUNDAY "SING."

The programme for to-morrow night's "Sing" at Strathcona Hall is sure to attract a large attendance. As usual, there will be a number of old-fashioned hymns sung, of the kind that are known to everybody from childhood. Besides this, an illustrated talk is to be given by M. G. Brooks, of Ceylon. The subject will be "The Old Civilization of Ceylon," and the lecture is certain to interest all who are present. The photographs illustrating the lecture, which will be shown on the screen, are quite unique, and the presence of a goodly number of R. V. C. students who will be in attendance will prove an added attraction.

Ageing and BlendingROSE QUESNEL*Native Canadian Tobacco

We have seen in our previous advertisements that, from the selection and first planting of the seed to the ultimate packing of the cured plant, it is a constant solicitude to the planter.

The tobacco, packed in bundles arrives at our warehouses where the stock is inspected, and, if the leaf appears to be well cured and of good quality it is "passed". Then the "hands" are packed upon each other in regular rows in large cases where they are compressed in a very solid mass and the casks stored in our cellars where the tobacco ages for two years. It is the slow, sure way of perfectly maturing tobacco in wooden cases which gives it that mellowed smoothness you taste in every pipeful of Rose Quesnel.

When perfectly aged the Quesnel Tobacco and Rose Tobacco, the two most fragrant and aromatic varieties of tobacco grown in Canada are blended by experts, in scientific proportions, the result of years of research and experiment, and, it is then ready to be cut and packed for the trade.

ROSE QUESNEL Smoking Tobacco

MILD AND NATURAL

is an ideal blend of native pipe tobaccos. You cannot get greater tobacco satisfaction than ROSE QUESNEL will give you; it is free from sting or bite, does not dry or parch the mouth and it is cool, sweet, mild and fragrant.

At all dealers.

ROSE QUESNEL Tobacco is the product of the choicest natural native leaf, properly grown, dried and cured and guaranteed free from artificial flavoring and "filling".

It is all tobacco and nothing but tobacco.

Public notice is hereby given that, under the Quebec Companies' Act, letters patent have been issued by the Lieutenant-Governor of the Province of Quebec, bearing date the 29th December, 1916, incorporating Messrs. Raoul Alfred Leduc, manager, Irene Amyot, broker, William Russell Atkin, inspector, Leon Leduc, accountant, and Joseph Donat Lamy, cashier, of the city of Montreal, for the following purposes:

To act as agents for and to canvass for life, fire, marine, guarantee, fidelity, workmen's compensation and other insurance companies, and as agents for any company or companies doing business of any kind or nature; to act as agents, to buy and sell for and on commission, stock, shares, bonds, debentures, and all kinds of negotiable instruments, securities, investments, agreement for sale and equities of redemption; to carry on business as real estate agents and brokers and valuers and mortgage brokers, and as negotiators and agents for the purchase and sale, mortgaging all kinds of real property and pledging all kinds of personal property, and for renting, letting or leasing of all such property as is or may be rented, let or leased, and to act as agents for individuals, firms or corporations for the investments of money upon the security of mortgages, bonds, debentures, promissory notes, bills of exchange or other securities of whatsoever nature and to guarantee the payment or any sufficiency of any security or securities in or upon which any such moneys may be invested and to buy, sell, exchange, lease or otherwise deal in real estate and immovable property, and to carry on the business of insurance inspectors and adjusters in all its branches:

To acquire or undertake the whole or any part of the business property and liabilities of any person or company carrying on any business which the company is authorized to carry on, or possessed of property suitable for the purposes of the company;

To enter into partnership or into any agreement for sharing of profits, union of interests, co-operation, joint adventure, reciprocal concession or otherwise with any person, firm or company carrying on or engaged in, or about to carry on or engage in any business or transaction capable of being conducted so as directly or indirectly to benefit the company; and to lend money to, guarantee the contracts of or otherwise assist any such person, firm or company and to take or otherwise acquire, shares and securities of any such company, and to sell, hold, re-issue, with or without guarantee, or otherwise deal with the same and to amalgamate with any other company having objects altogether or in part similar to those of this company;

To take, or otherwise acquire, and hold shares in any company having objects altogether or in part similar to those of this company or carrying on any business capable of being conducted so as directly or indirectly to benefit this company;

To sell or dispose of the undertaking of the company or any part thereof for such consideration as the company may think fit, and in particular for shares, debentures or securities of any other company having objects altogether or in part similar to those of this company;

To lend money to persons having dealings with the company and to guarantee the performance of contracts by any such persons;

To pay out of the funds of the company all costs and expenses of and incidental to the incorporation and organization of the company;

To do all or any of the above things as principals, agents, contractors or otherwise, and either alone or in connection with others;

To remunerate by payment in cash, or with the approval of the shareholders in stock, bonds, or in any other manner, any person or persons, or corporation or corporations, for services rendered and to be rendered in placing or assisting to place, or guaranteeing the placing of any debentures or other securities of the company, or in any other manner whatsoever, in the conduct of its business;

The above powers or purposes of the company shall be deemed to be several and not dependent on each other and the company may pursue or carry on any one or more of such objects without regard to the others of them, under the name of "General Agencies, Limited," with a capital stock of twenty thousand dollars ($20,000.00), divided into four hundred (400) shares of fifty dollars ($50.00) each.

The principal place of business of the corporation will be in the city of Montreal.

TRIP TO ELEVATORS FOR RAILWAY CLUB

Members of Club to Make Interesting Excursion to Grain Elevators at Wharves.

The McGill Railway and Mechanical Club have been successful in again arranging for what promises to be the most interesting and instructive trip of the season. This afternoon the members of the club will assemble at the McGill Union and will leave from here a few minutes after 2 o'clock for No. 2 elevator at the wharves. This trip was scheduled to take place before the holidays, but due to inclement weather was postponed.

Through the courtesy of Sir John Kennedy, the club have received passes to the works of the Harbour Commissioners. These passes must be obtained from Mr. S. J. W. Lidd, before leaving the Union. The elevators are second to none on the continent, and are situated along a harbour on which no palms have been spared to make it the best of its kind anywhere. The elevators will be of interest to the club not only from a transportation viewpoint, but from electrical and mechanical ones as well. The members will be conducted through the elevator by the superintendent, Mr. J. Neenham, a past student of McGill. Mr. Neenham has been connected with the Harbour Commission for some time, and knows the elevators from top to bottom in every detail.

The whole elevator system, the wharfage and the transportation machinery extending all along the water front, is under the control of the Harbour Commissioners. Their planning was to a large extent done by Sir John Kennedy. He is the "Dean of the Engineers," being Canada's oldest engineer. The planning of the works along the water front tells quite clearly the foresight Sir John Kennedy showed of Canada's future growth.

The students who will avail themselves of the trip to the elevators, with their complex and wonderful system of conveyors for loading boats scattered along a water front of miles, will have an exceptionally good opportunity of studying the methods of coping with one of Canada's greatest transportation problems.

Several students have already obtained their passes, and judging by the interest taken a bumper crowd will be on hand.

ARTS UNDERGRADUATE SMOKER.

Those in charge of the Arts Undergraduate Smoker, which will take place on Tuesday, February 13th, report that everything is pointing toward the holding of a most successful affair. As this will be the last function of the kind held this year, all Arts students are requested to turn out. The entertainment for the evening will be augmented by selections by the Orchestra, which has been obtained for the occasion, and Messrs. Presner, Clapham, Tremble and Corbett will also help in amusing those present. In addition other items of entertainment will go to make up what it is hoped will be a thoroughly enjoyable smoker.

MORE DETAILS ABOUT PARADE ON MONDAY NIGHT.

Tickets are on sale at the Union, and can be obtained any time from now until Monday night. The different class presidents are asked to get after their men and see that there is no misunderstanding on this point. Another thing that cheer leader Bill Hughes emphasized was the fact that every man be sharp on time at 7.30, as he would not stand for stragglers coming into the parade during the march out. There will be another rehearsal of the songs in the Union at 7.00 p.m. on Monday, and as many as can are asked to attend.

REV. H. PEDLEY MADE DOCTOR OF DIVINITY

Veteran Missionary Says Japan Will Stick to Her Promises.

A special convocation was held on Thursday night at the Congregational College, for the purpose of conferring upon the Rev. Hilton Pedley, of Maebashi, Japan, the degree of D.D. Dr. Pedley has spent 25 years of service in Japan as a missionary. The ceremony was followed by a banquet tendered by Mr. Chas. Gurd, to the governors of the college.

The toast of "Our Empire and Our Allies" was proposed by the Rev. H. J. Kilbourn, and responded to by Mr. W. D. Lighthall. "Our College" was toasted by the Rev. G. Ellery Read, of Sherbrooke, and responded to by the Rev. Dr. Warriner, acting principal. The Rev. Galen H. Craik, of Melbourne, proposed the toast to "Our Governors," and Mr. J. R. Dougall responded. The Rev. Dr. Hugh Pedley, elder brother of the guest of the evening, proposed the toast to "Our Guests," and it was responded to by the Rev. Dr. Glen Atkins, Providence, Rhode Island, the Rev. Dr. Rexford, and Dr. Hilton Pedley.

The Rev. Glen Atkins said that there had never been any doubt, as to which side the people of the United States were on in this war.

"We have been patient and long-suffering, but I must confess that I do not regret that patience," said Mr. Atkins. "After all, it is better to remember that we have with everything than to remember that we were forward in seeking trouble. Some of us regret that there are certain services that we will have to stop rendering, something that we will not be able to do for humanity, for in America, in the last two or three years, there has been a body of unselfish men who have sought to serve humanity and have tried to help to relieve the burden of the world's sorrows."

The Rev. Dr. Hilton Pedley thought very highly of the political stand of Japan, and it was his opinion that she would remain true to all her engagements. She had been faithful to her obligations in the past, and she would continue to do so. When it was a matter of dealing with international agreements, the Japanese Government would be found faithful, for there was still the spirit there of the old days that decreed that under all circumstances loyalty and obligations had to be lived up to.

SCIENCE GRADUATES NEEDED FOR GUNS

Heavy Artillery Requires Men With Previous Scientific Training.

Although the recruiting for the Draft Siege and Heavy Artillery, (Lieut. M. T. Burke, O.C.), has been going on very satisfactorily this last week, there are still several uniforms needing owners. This is the one unit where students and graduates of Science courses can apply their knowledge to the best advantage. In all siege operations and in fact all heavy as well, the laying is done indirectly. That is to say, the gun is pointed by indirect means, the men on the gun not being able to see the target. To do this a number of accurate measurements must be taken and several triangles solved. This work necessitates quite a large knowledge of Trigonometry, Algebra and Geometry, so Lieut. Burke would like to take a few Science undergraduates over with him in his draft. The chances of a man, with a good mathematical knowledge, obtaining stripes or even a commission when he gets to England are very good so that, coupled with the fact that the draft ought to leave very shortly, this should be a very attractive offer. All this does not mean that there is not room for the man without expert knowledge. As a matter of fact, there is much more room for that sort of man than for the one with special qualifications. It is a co-operation of the two classes of men that makes a successful battery. Any man desiring to take advantage of these opportunities should apply at once to one of the unit's recruiting stations which are situated at 560 St. Catherine Street West, and in the Orderly Room, Montreal Heavy Brigade C. A. (Lieut.-Col. W. E. Lyman, O.C.), in the Craig St. Drill Hall, or 'phone Up 8123 and ask for Lieut. Burke, who is to take the Draft Siege and Heavy Artillery over-seas.

"Old Stuff"

It is customary when advertising to college men to show a group of sturdy young savages battling their way to victory and then state that this or that article of food or raiment made the victory possible.

Shredded Wheat

certainly did not fill the above shells with these fine appearing young gentlemen. It might have helped—we know of numerous cases where it has—but it did not do it alone. You might or might not like Shredded Wheat. Most people do like it. The best way to find out is to try for yourself. You may be sure of this: Shredded Wheat is actually what it is represented to be—an exceptionally nutritious food made from the whole wheat berry. It does feed the body, give strength to the muscles and help to keep the stomach and digestive organs clean and in a healthy condition. That is all.

"Those fussing parties sure are fine," I heard a freshe say, I lit up on that freshe's spine and chewed his ear away; I've had experience on the ice, and memories full of pain, and tho' I've been there once or twice I'll never go again. By heck, it makes me rage and foam to hear some silly ass remark he likes to take queens home, to Notre Dame de Grace. Oh, how on earth can any one approaching manhood's years pretend that there's the greatest fun in freezing both your ears! And if you fall ten times a night, as I am bound to do, will you maintain its your delight to break a bone or two? And all the queens you'd like to know avoid your optic neatly, and little prunes, all in a row are there (they smile so sweetly); and every one has forty more to introduce to you, until you long to shed their sore, before the thing's half through.

So when at last you find you're free, and on the trail "thum," I think that then you will agree you've had enough, by gum!

POET SCORNER.

Edited by Pyrotechnic Pets.

Attention, gentle reader, we would a word with you. At immense expense and only with great trouble we have obtained the services of the far-famed Japanese bard, Ayeh Sen. Mr.

Sen, up till a few hours ago, was a native of Tokio, but when the college he was attending admitted lady members to its Student Council, he was persecuted so fiercely that he was compelled to flee for his life, and escaped to Canada with no baggage

but a packet of safety-razor blades, which he was buying on the instalment plan. He is now in our midst, expecting a warm reception, and we trust that his efforts will meet with your approval (not that it matters at all).

The following is an imitation of Swinburne, in Sen's best style.

THOSE XMAS CIGARS.

If grass were best Egyptian,

And hay, tobacco leaf,

I've no doubt, dear, your present

To me would be right pleasant;

No more, then, would my lips shun

Alfalfa in the sheaf—

If grass were best Egyptian,

And hay, tobacco leaf.

When is your tie not your tie?

When it becomes your room mate!

(Slide! slide!)

Half Baked—"Don't you consider an order of raw beef improper?"

"Why so?"

"Because it isn't done, you know."

Pick Me up—She (making small talk)—These light dresses spot awfully easy.

He (making the play to first)—You know it—I spotted yours way across the campus.

The Uncomplaining Wheat-cake —

He—Are wheat-cakes healthy?

Me—I never heard one complain of being sick.

They sat on the steps at midnight,

ANOTHER ASPECT OF THE

"NOTE TAKING" QUESTION.

Because one pen is mightier than a sword when used for the mundane and entirely unnecessary purpose of "taking notes," is that a proof that two pens have a Big-Bertina backed off the war map?

Is there a panacea for all examinations in the transportation of professorial thoughts onto the note-page in ink of two colors, instead of one?

Everyone has seen them—these once rare, but rapidly increasing students who arm themselves with two pens for the highly serious exercise of attending lectures.

One of these fountains writes in carmine on the unsullied page; the other drips dull gray over the fingers of him who uses it.

Both of them belong to a student who feels the immediate necessity of writing, writing, writing, every second of the time that the poor lecturer is speaking.

First, with an unearthly scratch, the black ink flows frantically.

Then a subdued "Ah! Hah! a fundamental idea!" and the red is busily engaged in underlying the black.

And so it goes—day after day, month after month, semester after semester. And to the end of their days, it must be supposed, for those students who are hurrying through college with two pens at their belt.

Life isn't written with two pens;

and life does not divide itself into the red and black. If all their taking of notes has not taught these two-pen students this, then they have learned nothing.

And one thing more. Although there may be an obvious method in the madness of these indefatigable takers of notes, it is obvious that there is madness in their method.—

THEOLOG. TALK.

First Senior (Talking of the Dead Sea and the Mediterranean): Some day somebody'll be boring a tunnel from the Mediterranean through into Palestine.

Second Senior: What for?

First Senior: To let in the sea and fertilize the country.

Second Senior: How would they keep it from flooding the whole country? Wouldn't it be a better stunt to put an umbrella over the Dead Sea and let it rise?

Soph: That would be an awfully big "undertaking."

"What became of Little Mary? Little Mary started to school, slate in hand. By and by she stopped the use of the slate and the 'exercise book' was substituted. She also dropped the 'r' and 'May' was her new name.

High School days increased her knowledge and also her name—it appeared

'Mayme.' College days were crowded full and the notes reached home signed 'Mae.' . . . College days have passed and gone and in a home of her own they call her 'Ma.'
